The University Hospital, founded in 1992, is available for teaching and research purposes of the medical faculty of Universität Regensburg. Besides teaching, Universität Regensburg is also very actively involved in research, as shown by six special research areas supported by a service centre for all Bavarian universities, a regional university, is a modern campus university at the southern edge of the Old Town of Regensburg. Originally designed as a regional university, Universität Regensburg has developed into a renowned international centre of teaching and research over the last decades. Among its attractive features are a broad spectrum of disciplines, a favourable student-teacher ratio and excellent infrastructure. There are currently 20,273 students enrolled at Regensburg. Areas of research are immunopathology and immunology, political science, russian (eastern Slavic) language and literature, English language and literature, German as a Second Language, Slavic Languages and Literature.

Some of the international degree programmes are binational, as is the case for the Bavarian Academic Center for Central, Eastern and South European Studies (BayESHOT), which is a service centre for all Bavarian institutions of higher education, and is also housed at Universität Regensburg. Both programmes are designed to be binationals, as for example the German-Czech and the German-French programmes, which include a period of study abroad.

For English-Taught Programmes please see Degree Programmes which include a period of study abroad.

Internationally active partnerships are a key element of the ERASMUS programme, University Regensburg has exchange links with more than 200 European partner institutions. The University Regensburg actively participates in a large number of international partnerships. In the framework of the ERASMUS programme, University Regensburg has exchange links with more than 400 exchange students from all over the world.

Due to its geographical location, Universität Regensburg has always considered itself a bridge between East and West. The university has concluded far-reaching cooperation agreements with ten European universities among a gifted research and teaching exchange. With the EUROLANDUM, it has set up an interdisciplinary East-West Centre for research and teaching. The target group of the Secondis Programme, which is unique in Germany, is bachelor students with a geographical connection to a different country (currently East-European). The Bavarian Academic Center for Central, Eastern and South European Studies (BayESHOT), which is a service centre for all Bavarian institutions of higher education, is also housed at Universität Regensburg.

Some of the international degree programmes are binational, as for example the German-Czech and the German-French programmes, which include a period of study abroad.

For English-Taught Programmes please see Degree Programmes which include a period of study abroad.

Internationally active partnerships are a key element of the ERASMUS programme, University Regensburg has exchange links with more than 200 European partner institutions. The University Regensburg actively participates in a large number of international partnerships. In the framework of the ERASMUS programme, University Regensburg has exchange links with more than 400 exchange students from all over the world.

Due to its geographical location, Universität Regensburg has always considered itself a bridge between East and West. The university has concluded far-reaching cooperation agreements with ten European universities among a gifted research and teaching exchange. With the EUROLANDUM, it has set up an interdisciplinary East-West Centre for research and teaching. The target group of the Secondis Programme, which is unique in Germany, is bachelor students with a geographical connection to a different country (currently East-European). The Bavarian Academic Center for Central, Eastern and South European Studies (BayESHOT), which is a service centre for all Bavarian institutions of higher education, is also housed at Universität Regensburg.

Some of the international degree programmes are binational, as for example the German-Czech and the German-French programmes, which include a period of study abroad.

For English-Taught Programmes please see Degree Programmes which include a period of study abroad.

Internationally active partnerships are a key element of the ERASMUS programme, University Regensburg has exchange links with more than 200 European partner institutions. The University Regensburg actively participates in a large number of international partnerships. In the framework of the ERASMUS programme, University Regensburg has exchange links with more than 400 exchange students from all over the world.

Due to its geographical location, Universität Regensburg has always considered itself a bridge between East and West. The university has concluded far-reaching cooperation agreements with ten European universities among a gifted research and teaching exchange. With the EUROLANDUM, it has set up an interdisciplinary East-West Centre for research and teaching. The target group of the Secondis Programme, which is unique in Germany, is bachelor students with a geographical connection to a different country (currently East-European). The Bavarian Academic Center for Central, Eastern and South European Studies (BayESHOT), which is a service centre for all Bavarian institutions of higher education, is also housed at Universität Regensburg.

Some of the international degree programmes are binational, as for example the German-Czech and the German-French programmes, which include a period of study abroad.

For English-Taught Programmes please see Degree Programmes which include a period of study abroad.

Internationally active partnerships are a key element of the ERASMUS programme, University Regensburg has exchange links with more than 200 European partner institutions. The University Regensburg actively participates in a large number of international partnerships. In the framework of the ERASMUS programme, University Regensburg has exchange links with more than 400 exchange students from all over the world.
The Computer Centre and the buildings on campus are the authorised service and competence centre on campus. As the university's facilities aim to offer various cultural events, but also extraordinary opportunities to take part in them, which allows students to develop their talents outside their regular studies. A unique range of music is performed to a very high standard by four classical orchestras, three big bands, several more jazz ensembles, six choirs and various student chamber ensembles.

At the university's theatre, supported by Student Services, around 15 student ensembles perform theatre classics and special highlights — in German, English and Russian — as well as house productions, pantomime, martial arts, dance and improv theatre, musicals and performance projects. Last year’s outcome: 37 productions, 97 performances and an audience of around 10,000 people. Universität Regensburg also has its own stage which is special and nearly unique: Regensburg and Kiel are the only German-speaking universities that own a theatre that is independently operated, equipped with professional event technology including a sound and film studio. The fully functional theatre with a grandio and a flying system has everything the artist’s heart could wish for.

CULTURE ON CAMPUS

The Regensburg campus does not only offer various cultural events, but also extraordinary opportunities to take part in them, which allows students to develop their talents outside their regular studies. A unique range of music is performed to a very high standard by four classical orchestras, three big bands, several more jazz ensembles, six choirs and various student chamber ensembles.

At the university's theatre, supported by Student Services, around 15 student ensembles perform theatre classics and special highlights — in German, English and Russian — as well as house productions, pantomime, martial arts, dance and improv theatre, musicals and performance projects. Last year’s outcome: 37 productions, 97 performances and an audience of around 10,000 people. Universität Regensburg also has its own stage which is special and nearly unique: Regensburg and Kiel are the only German-speaking universities that own a theatre that is independently operated, equipped with professional event technology including a sound and film studio. The fully functional theatre with a grandio and a flying system has everything the artist’s heart could wish for.

CULTURE ON CAMPUS

The Regensburg campus does not only offer various cultural events, but also extraordinary opportunities to take part in them, which allows students to develop their talents outside their regular studies. A unique range of music is performed to a very high standard by four classical orchestras, three big bands, several more jazz ensembles, six choirs and various student chamber ensembles.

At the university's theatre, supported by Student Services, around 15 student ensembles perform theatre classics and special highlights — in German, English and Russian — as well as house productions, pantomime, martial arts, dance and improv theatre, musicals and performance projects. Last year’s outcome: 37 productions, 97 performances and an audience of around 10,000 people. Universität Regensburg also has its own stage which is special and nearly unique: Regensburg and Kiel are the only German-speaking universities that own a theatre that is independently operated, equipped with professional event technology including a sound and film studio. The fully functional theatre with a grandio and a flying system has everything the artist’s heart could wish for.

CULTURE ON CAMPUS

The Regensburg campus does not only offer various cultural events, but also extraordinary opportunities to take part in them, which allows students to develop their talents outside their regular studies. A unique range of music is performed to a very high standard by four classical orchestras, three big bands, several more jazz ensembles, six choirs and various student chamber ensembles.

At the university's theatre, supported by Student Services, around 15 student ensembles perform theatre classics and special highlights — in German, English and Russian — as well as house productions, pantomime, martial arts, dance and improv theatre, musicals and performance projects. Last year’s outcome: 37 productions, 97 performances and an audience of around 10,000 people. Universität Regensburg also has its own stage which is special and nearly unique: Regensburg and Kiel are the only German-speaking universities that own a theatre that is independently operated, equipped with professional event technology including a sound and film studio. The fully functional theatre with a grandio and a flying system has everything the artist’s heart could wish for.

CULTURE ON CAMPUS

The Regensburg campus does not only offer various cultural events, but also extraordinary opportunities to take part in them, which allows students to develop their talents outside their regular studies. A unique range of music is performed to a very high standard by four classical orchestras, three big bands, several more jazz ensembles, six choirs and various student chamber ensembles.

At the university's theatre, supported by Student Services, around 15 student ensembles perform theatre classics and special highlights — in German, English and Russian — as well as house productions, pantomime, martial arts, dance and improv theatre, musicals and performance projects. Last year’s outcome: 37 productions, 97 performances and an audience of around 10,000 people. Universität Regensburg also has its own stage which is special and nearly unique: Regensburg and Kiel are the only German-speaking universities that own a theatre that is independently operated, equipped with professional event technology including a sound and film studio. The fully functional theatre with a grandio and a flying system has everything the artist’s heart could wish for.

CULTURE ON CAMPUS

The Regensburg campus does not only offer various cultural events, but also extraordinary opportunities to take part in them, which allows students to develop their talents outside their regular studies. A unique range of music is performed to a very high standard by four classical orchestras, three big bands, several more jazz ensembles, six choirs and various student chamber ensembles.

At the university's theatre, supported by Student Services, around 15 student ensembles perform theatre classics and special highlights — in German, English and Russian — as well as house productions, pantomime, martial arts, dance and improv theatre, musicals and performance projects. Last year’s outcome: 37 productions, 97 performances and an audience of around 10,000 people. Universität Regensburg also has its own stage which is special and nearly unique: Regensburg and Kiel are the only German-speaking universities that own a theatre that is independently operated, equipped with professional event technology including a sound and film studio. The fully functional theatre with a grandio and a flying system has everything the artist’s heart could wish for.

CULTURE ON CAMPUS

The Regensburg campus does not only offer various cultural events, but also extraordinary opportunities to take part in them, which allows students to develop their talents outside their regular studies. A unique range of music is performed to a very high standard by four classical orchestras, three big bands, several more jazz ensembles, six choirs and various student chamber ensembles.

At the university's theatre, supported by Student Services, around 15 student ensembles perform theatre classics and special highlights — in German, English and Russian — as well as house productions, pantomime, martial arts, dance and improv theatre, musicals and performance projects. Last year’s outcome: 37 productions, 97 performances and an audience of around 10,000 people. Universität Regensburg also has its own stage which is special and nearly unique: Regensburg and Kiel are the only German-speaking universities that own a theatre that is independently operated, equipped with professional event technology including a sound and film studio. The fully functional theatre with a grandio and a flying system has everything the artist’s heart could wish for.

CULTURE ON CAMPUS

The Regensburg campus does not only offer various cultural events, but also extraordinary opportunities to take part in them, which allows students to develop their talents outside their regular studies. A unique range of music is performed to a very high standard by four classical orchestras, three big bands, several more jazz ensembles, six choirs and various student chamber ensembles.

At the university's theatre, supported by Student Services, around 15 student ensembles perform theatre classics and special highlights — in German, English and Russian — as well as house productions, pantomime, martial arts, dance and improv theatre, musicals and performance projects. Last year’s outcome: 37 productions, 97 performances and an audience of around 10,000 people. Universität Regensburg also has its own stage which is special and nearly unique: Regensburg and Kiel are the only German-speaking universities that own a theatre that is independently operated, equipped with professional event technology including a sound and film studio. The fully functional theatre with a grandio and a flying system has everything the artist’s heart could wish for.

CULTURE ON CAMPUS

The Regensburg campus does not only offer various cultural events, but also extraordinary opportunities to take part in them, which allows students to develop their talents outside their regular studies. A unique range of music is performed to a very high standard by four classical orchestras, three big bands, several more jazz ensembles, six choirs and various student chamber ensembles.

At the university's theatre, supported by Student Services, around 15 student ensembles perform theatre classics and special highlights — in German, English and Russian — as well as house productions, pantomime, martial arts, dance and improv theatre, musicals and performance projects. Last year’s outcome: 37 productions, 97 performances and an audience of around 10,000 people. Universität Regensburg also has its own stage which is special and nearly unique: Regensburg and Kiel are the only German-speaking universities that own a theatre that is independently operated, equipped with professional event technology including a sound and film studio. The fully functional theatre with a grandio and a flying system has everything the artist’s heart could wish for.