University Preparatory German Courses
Summer semester 2019

The German language preparation courses at the University of Regensburg provide university-specific foreign language training at a variety of levels. The goal of the language courses is to help the applicant attain the level of proficiency needed to study in German, proven by passing the German language university entrance exam for international students, the Deutsche Sprachprüfung für den Hochschulzugang (DSH), for which we prepare you. Our courses are set up as intensive courses and based on the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR).
